KIDNAPER SMOTHERED CASH CHILD

McCall Insists He Did Not Intend To Harm Boy

Miami, Fla., June 11.—(AP)—A coroner's jury was called into session again today to return a formal verdict in the death of James Bailey Cash, Jr., whose kidnapping-slashing was fully solved yesterday with announcement by federal agents of a detailed confession from Franklin Pierce McCall.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, said McCall admitted he alone was responsible for abducting the Princeton, Fla., child. Previously McCall had told of writing three ransom notes and collecting $10,000 from the boy's father.

The 21-year-old unemployed truck driver was under guard in a cell high in Dade county's skyscraper jail.

Body Decomposed

The six-man coroner's jury examined "Skeegie's" body Thursday, viewed the spot where it was found several hours earlier and adjourned until today. (1 P. M., C. S. T.)

Whether the jury actually could determine how the five-year-old kidnap victim died was problematical. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition after lying in the open for 12 days.

Hoover said McCall insisted he had not planned to harm the boy. The signed confession, parts of which were made public, said McCall entered the child's bedroom the night of May 28 and placed two handkerchiefs over his face, one over the eyes and one over the mouth.

Child Lifeless

Hoover said McCall "lifted the child and walked out of the door through which he had entered and carried the child to his home, about a half mile away, taking about 15 minutes to walk it."

"McCall said the child did not move at any time he held it and he thought it was asleep. He entered his home through a rear door and said he tried to awaken the child but found it to be dead."

"He picked it up and ran through the woods to the rear of his home to a glade which he knew and where there was thick underbrush. He threw the body into the thicket of scrub palmetto and ran back home, about a half mile away."

McCall was quoted as saying he picked out an abandoned house near Princeton where he planned to keep the boy until the $10,000 he demanded for ransom was paid.

No one came forward to offer help to McCall yesterday as he was transferred under heavy guard from FBI headquarters to the jail and booked on an open charge—"held for the state attorney."

Chamberlain Policy Toward Dictators Is Attacked By Eden

Leamington, Eng., June 11.—(AP)—Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden tonight scored the foreign policy of Premier Neville Chamberlain's government demanding that a clear stand be taken against nations who "still believe in power politics."

Eden made the most forceful arraignment of the Chamberlain government he has set forth since he quit the cabinet Feb. 20 in protest against the prime minister's policy of dealing with the dictators of Italy and Germany.

He named no names of nations or leaders, however, in a speech before his Leamington constituents, though his implications were apparent.

"Retreat is not always the path of peace," Eden warned.

Democrat National Committee $33,000 In Arrears, Report

Washington, June 11.—(AP)—The Democratic national committee reported to Congress today that it was $33,000 "in the red."

A report filed with the House clerk showed the committee had to supplement its income from cash donations and victory and Jackson day dinners with a $25,000 bank loan.

Republicans are better off. Their national committee told the House clerk yesterday it still had $14,546 of $352,193 contributed to it since January 1 and had pledges of $68,515 more for this year's election war.

Sartorial Rivals

Washington, June 11.—(AP)—Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), who appeared on the Senate floor last week in a green suit, was given to understand today that at least two of his elegantly-clad colleagues had resolved to go him one better.

A "sartorial upstart," he was termed by Senators Neely of West Virginia and Lewis of Illinois, known about the Capitol as a pair of the Senate's best-dressed members.

Neely said his next suit would be of the rainbow. Lewis, he said, has "ordered a new suit to be made from the Aurora Borealis" and equipped with platinum zippers.

URGES RULING TO KEEP MATERIALS OFF THE STREET

Frank Hughes Cites 3 Instances Of Danger To Citizens

Frank Hughes appeared before the city council last evening and appealed to the members for the enforcement of the city ordinance prohibiting scattering of building materials on the streets. Mr. Hughes told the commission that a damage suit now faced the city because this practice had been permitted and indicated that others may follow unless some action is taken.

In complaining of the practice, Mr. Hughes cited three instances in recent days in which accidents had been narrowly averted, and attributed each to the condition of the streets over which sand and gravel trucks had passed.

Mayor Sligher welcomed the criticism from the citizen and stated that Commissioner Joe Valle of the department of streets had exerted every influence in an attempt to secure the cooperation of truck drivers in halting the offense. Promises had been made by drivers of material trucks and contractors, the Mayor added, only to be forgotten.

He told the council that the street department had expended considerable time and funds in cleaning up First street only to have it littered within a short time.

"Poor Sportsmen"

Commissioner Valle told the council that every effort had been exercised in an attempt to secure the cooperation of contractors and drivers of trucks to eliminate the offense, even to the point of threats of arrest, but to no avail. The commissioner said that not only sand but heavy coarse gravel was scattered over the paved streets by the trucks, and he classified both contractors and truck drivers as "poor sportsmen" for not cooperating with the city officials, before it becomes necessary to arrest the offenders and send them to jail.

Mr. Hughes told the council that government trucks hauling sand and gravel to the new army building were the chief offenders, and urged that the city officials take immediate action to put a stop to the offense.

The council voted the granting of three soft drink licenses to Andy Karydes, John Kellar and the Scott store and a dairy license to Earl Auman. Semi-monthly bills against the city amounting to $5,461.30 were ordered paid.

Derrick Needed

Nashville, Ill., June 11.—(AP)—John Hemminghaus was in a hospital today, suffering from a broken leg he received when he attempted to extricate his horse from quicksand in a creek.

The animal, struggled to escape, struck Hemminghaus' leg with its head. After Hemminghaus was injured the horse was removed with an automobile wrecker.

Mid-West Corn Crops are Reported Seriously Imperiled by Heavy Rains

Chicago, June 11.—(AP)—Corn and wheat crops in the middle west the Federal Weather Bureau office reported today, have been imperiled seriously by heavy and almost daily rains during the past month.

Late planting of corn has been delayed because of the weedy condition of the fields, while the wheat crop is being menaced by rust damage due to the heavy rainfall. Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said, Water in the corn fields has prevented cultivation.

In Chicago and adjacent territory, the weather bureau reported 18 of the last 28 days had had a rainfall of .01 of an inch or more, an all-time record average fall. The previous wettest period was of 16 days in 1889.

Forecaster Lloyd predicted rain today, but said he expected sunny

WEATHER IS BLAMED FOR PLANE CRASH

Major Camblin Says Bomber "Disintegrated" in Air

Delavan, Ill., June 11.—(AP)—The bombing plane in which a crew of eight perished yesterday "disintegrated" in the air during a storm, Major Roy W. Camblin said today on the basis of a preliminary inquiry.

Major Camblin headed an army board which began a formal inquiry today at the scene of the crash, a farm meadow two miles northwest of here.

He told a coroner's jury: "There is no doubt the plane disintegrated in the air, either because it was struck by lightning or by stress caused by rough handling by the storm."

Major Camblin said a preliminary investigation failed to disclose any "real evidence" that a bolt of lightning hit the ship, a Douglas B-18 bomber carrying three officers and five enlisted men. A wing found about 200 yards from the main portion of the wreckage was not seared by lightning, he said.

Bodies Are Removed

The broken bodies of the fliers were removed last night to Chanute Field at Rantoul, Ill., where the Real Surprise

Delavan, Ill., June 11.—(AP)—An enterprising farm youth furnished novel transportation to scores of persons who went to see the wrecked bombing plane in a meadow two miles northwest of here.

The boy hitched his father's biggest hayrack to a tractor and took his passengers into the field from the nearest road—about one-half mile away. There was a fee of 25 cents a round trip.

Army men at the scene reported the lad was doing a good business. The field was covered with mud and water and persons not using the hay-rack tractor vehicle either wore hip boots or wore minus shoes and stockings.

plane took off for a return flight to the home base, Lowry Field, in Denver.

The victims were Capt. Richard B. Reeve, 36, Waukegan, Wis.; First Lieut. Norman H. Ives, 31, Los Angeles; Second Lieut. Thomas Langben, 27, Galveston, Texas; Staff Sgt. Edward F. Murah, 32, Denver; Corp. William H. Housley, 30, Stillwater, Okla.; Pvt. Philip J. Truitt, 23, Galax, Va.; Pvt. Max W. Myser, 21, Villa Grove, Ill.; Pvt. George L. Huntsman, 23, Kewanee, Ill.

Capt. Hugo P. Rush, who with First Lieut. Samuel Stephenson and Major Camblin is a member of the board of inquiry, said it was unlikely the crash was due to "structural failure" of the plane. He joined Major Camblin in expressing the opinion the weather caused the accident.

Conflicting statements by eyewitnesses will be sifted and the wreckage examined before the board makes a formal report to the war department. Major Camblin said the findings might be made public by Washington within 10 days.

Dozen Witnesses Testify

To Wilt Collars

Chicago, June 11.—(AP)—The city council has taken steps to knock down the size of the collars being worn by Chicago beer steins.

Alderman William Rowan complained there was too much foam and too little beer. He wants a standard fixed for tavernkeepers.

"Beer steins these days are wearing a collar that comes up to the ears," he said.

His suggestion that an ordinance be drafted to "take the starch out of these collars, to wilt them down" was reported enthusiastically by his colleagues.

JURY IN CRABB CASE DELIBERATES FOR 48 HOURS

Was Still Deadlocked at Lunch Time Today; Locked Up

Pekin, Ill., June 11.—(AP)—The strain of long deliberations showed at noon today on the faces of James Warren Crabb's jurors.

The jurors appeared drawn and haggard from a sleepless night as they re-entered their private quarters to start the 23rd hour of conferences. They were out an hour for lunch.

Crabb ate with his father in a nearby restaurant and laughed joked with his companions.

Arguments could be heard from the jury room occasionally. Corridors and the Circuit Court room on the third floor of the court house were comfortably filled with the curious.

At 1:30 Sheriff Ralph Goar conferred with lawyers representing both sides and then directed Bailiff C. K. Moses to lock the jury in the deliberating room, pocket the key and take a short nap in an ante room. Deputy Sheriff Earl Whitmore took his post before the door. It was the first rest the 83-year-old special bailiff had taken since he reported for duty at 8 o'clock Friday morning.

When Judge Joseph E. Daily returned to the courtroom at 9 o'clock, he was told the jurors appeared no nearer a verdict than they were last night.

The jury was taken to breakfast at 7 o'clock and returned at 8.

The janitor cleaned their rooms and sent in another five-gallon bottle of ice water during the breakfast period. They had used five gallons of water during the night.

Judge Daily indicated he would let them argue until they reached a verdict or were hopelessly deadlocked. Courtroom attendants intimated he would not keep them locked up another night.

The jury was locked in the court

Eight Die in Army Plane Crash

Pieces of the fuselage of the U. S. Army Douglas bomber that crashed at Delavan, Ill., killing eight army men aboard it. It fell during a thunderstorm and burst into flames; partly opened parachutes on some of the victims indicate they had attempted to bail out, but could not in time.

TRACK WASHOUT CAUSES WRECK OF TRAIN TODAY

St. Louis, June 11.—(AP)—"The Southerner," Missouri Pacific passenger train bound for Little Rock, Ark., was wrecked today in a track washout caused by a flooded creek near Hematite, Mo., 33 miles south of here.

The engineer, W. W. Malloy, of Bismarck, Mo., apparently was trapped and drowned in the cab of the locomotive, which turned over on its right side in the deep water of the creek bottom.

A baggage car also overturned and four other baggage cars were derailed, but no passenger coaches left the tracks.

The stream, fed by a heavy rain during the night, continuing to rise after the wreck and some 30 passengers were marooned. None was injured.

After several hours, a rough bridge of boards permitted them to leave the cars and reach a high bridge adjoining the tracks. It was necessary to rescue them in boats.

The fireman, C. T. Rill of Poplar Bluff, Mo., leaped into the water from the window at the left side of the cab. He reached a tree and clung there for four hours before he was saved by men in a motorboat.

"The Sunshine Special," coming to St. Louis, was forced to back 132 miles to Poplar Bluff and was rerouted through Illinois to its destination.

Burglar Escapes From Waukegan's Jail Last Night

Waukegan, Ill., June 11.—(AP)—Theodore Cart, 32, of Evanston, escaped from the Waukegan city jail last night by sawing through four bars and climbing out of a second floor window.

Cart, who police said had served at Pontiac, Ill., reformatory and San Quentin, Calif., prison, was being held for trial on charge of burglary. Police said they caught him in the act of robbing the Rynek Coal Company April 27, and that he tried to kill himself in jail shortly afterward by cutting his wrists with a broken milk bottle.

The prisoner's wife visited him last night. When keepers brought up his breakfast this morning, they found him gone.

Fortune is Found In Home of Recluse

Masontown, Pa., June 11.—(AP)—A fortune which Attorney Dean D. Sturgis estimated "might reach" $500,000 was found in an old safe after the death of a recluse who lived in a house without running water, electric lights or other conveniences.

State motor patrolmen said the four heirs, Mrs. David Gans of Philadelphia and her three daughters, gasped as the door of the iron box belonging to the late Fred Schroyer, 72, was swung open by a locksmith.

Score of $1,000 bills, a mass of dusty liberty bonds and other negotiable securities were stacked neatly inside.

Thank Lady Luck

Bluefield, W. Va., June 11.—(AP)—A freight train wrecked a municipal truck but Willard Rose, 55, and W. M. Lambert, 25, the driver and helper, think they were lucky.

They were sent to Falls Mills yesterday for a cargo but finding the place closed, they started the return trip with the empty truck.

The collision occurred enroute on a grade crossing. Rose escaped with a cut ear and Lambert was unhurt.

But that was only part of their luck.

Their cargo was to have been—dynamite.

RESISTANCE MET IN STERLING TO PURCHASE PLAN

City Council Advocates Buying the Plant of Water Company

Citizens of Sterling are involved in a spirited controversy, precipitated by a proposal by the city council to purchase the plant of the Sterling Water Co. for $750,000. The council advocates this action to make erection of a sewage disposal plant possible, maintaining that under state law the city must build such a disposal plant, and claiming that revenue from the water system will pay for the purchase of that system and also the disposal plant, without additional taxes. The council further submitted arguments that purchase of the water system would give the city revenue of $69,376.57 a year, based on figures for the year ending Jan. 1, 1938.

Paper Against Plan

Opponents of the proposal, who have the backing and support of the Sterling Gazette, argue that the price asked by the water company is $150,000 more than the last officially approved valuation of the system, and charge that the proceeds for the purchase of the system is being paid for by the water company and the Chicago firm, to which the $750,000 bonds would be sold. The foes of the proposal have asked that a mass meeting of taxpayers be held, but this request has been ignored by the city officials, and instead a postal card referendum of all citizens has been taken by the Sterling Association of Commerce, the cost of which, the Gazette charges, is being paid by the Chicago bond firm. The Gazette further charges that the postal cards were printed in Chicago, and intimates that any number of surplus cards may be marked in favor of the purchase and the ballot "stuffed."

The Controversy Will Probably

reach its climax at Monday evening's meeting of the city council, when the commissioners will vote on the purchase ordinance, which was filed last Monday evening.

SNEEZING ATTACK

Alton, Ill.—(AP)—A second 24-hour sneezing attack suffered by Nola Ann Thompson, 15, of Roxana, Ill., was ended yesterday at Alton Memorial hospital by physicians who administered an anesthetic. Nose specialists are preparing for an operation to determine the cause of the attacks.

BURNS FATAL TO BABE

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Burns she suffered May 22 by falling into a pan of hot water proved fatal to 14-month-old Patricia Ann Bly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bly.

Dog Showed Sense

Medford, Ore., June 11.—(AP)—A cocker spaniel left in a locked automobile nearly suffocated as a blazing sun sent the temperature soaring.

The animal, however, soundly ed the car's horn with its paw and attracted a rescuer who jimmied the door.

The spaniel collapsed on a lawn but revived quickly.

Girl, Apparently Suffering a Loss Of Memory, is Taken Into Custody

A young woman, apparently suffering from a lapse of memory, was taken into custody by Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber and Merchant Officer McIntyre last night at 11 o'clock on First street between Peoria and Hennepin avenues following receipt a report had been made at the police station of a young woman acting very strangely.

At the police station after much questioning, she gave her name as Margaret Pat Robinson and her age as 17. Officials of the Dixon state hospital were summoned to the police station, but were unable to identify her as having been a patient at the institution. She was finally turned over to the state hospital authorities and Chief Van Bibber this morning was informed that the girl was committed by Judge Ludens from the Whiteside county court early in 1935 to the Dixon institution and was taken away by relatives a few months later. The records at the state hospital registered the girl under the name of Genevieve Judd, daughter of Mrs. Charles Judd, 306 avenue A, Rock Falls, Chid. Van Bibber communicated this information to Chief McDonald of the Rock Falls police department, who was attempting to locate her family.

The girl was unable to give any information which would enable the local police to learn of her relatives. Her clothing indicated that she had been wandering about for several hours along the river banks.

STORM CREPT UP ON CLYDE BEFORE DUSK

Village of 700 People Bore Brunt of Slow Moving Cloud

Clyde, Texas, June 11.—(AP)—A slowly-moving tornado killed 13 people in this west Texas village of 700 last night, left several missing, injured at least 40 others and shattered two-score houses.

Weary volunteers searched the debris today, fearful that more bodies lay in the wreckage.

Doctors established emergency stations in stores and dressed wounds of the injured, some of whom entered to find the bodies of dead relatives on the floors.

Clyde was isolated several hours when the tornado tore down communication lines, delaying calls for ambulances, doctors, nurses and volunteers from Abilene and other nearby towns.

The Red Cross mobilized its facilities and a detachment of the National Guard set up a rolling kitchen.

Like Huge Snake

Like a huge snake, the storm crept upon the town shortly after dusk. Many saw it coming and scrambled to safety inside storm cellars.

The wind split a freight train, tumbling box cars along the rails. At least one transient was killed. Some reports said three were hauled down from the wreckage. Survivors told terrifying tales.

J. B. Easterling, whose wife was killed, said:

"When we saw the storm coming, we went back in the house. I wish we hadn't. All at once the wind hit. The house seemed to fall apart. A chimney fell all over me. I scratched my way out and began looking for my wife. She was under a piece of timber. Lord, but she was twisted and torn. I couldn't get her loose. I was holding her head when she died."

Cloud Moved Slowly

Ralph Short, newspaperman, saw the cloud while he was about eight miles from town. It moved very slowly, he said, and "residents told me it seemed an eternity before it hit. It was so solid that it looked like a vast column of brown earth, sitting in a big brown bowl."

The known dead:

Mrs. Margaret Ross.
William James de Spain, 4.
Mrs. J. B. Easterling, about 40.
Mrs. J. F. Bonner, 75.
J. E. Graham, 55.
Mrs. J. E. Graham, 55.

Lincoln Monument To Be Unveiled On Wabash Banks

Chicago, June 11.—(AP)—Abraham Lincoln's entrance into Illinois at the side of his pioneer father's covered wagon is depicted in a monument to be unveiled on Flag Day, June 14, on the west bank of the Wabash river in Lawrence county.

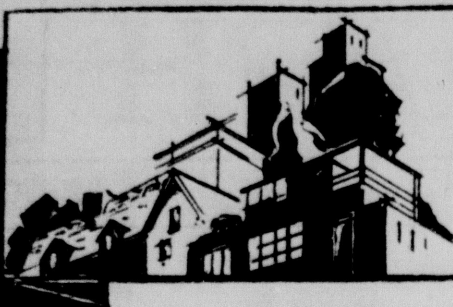

Illinois and Indiana Daughters of the American Revolution will assemble for the unveiling at the state park located at the Lincoln memorial bridge opposite Vincennes, Ind. D. A. R. contributions during a four-year campaign paid for the $15,000 monument.

The memorial, a bas relief panel of limestone, portrays the Lincoln family entering the state. The young Abraham Lincoln is represented in bronze walking beside the oxen near his father. The sculptress is Miss Nellie V. Walker of Chicago, pupil of Lorado Taft.

Objects To Granting Monopoly Committee Wide Quizzing Power

Washington, June 11.—(AP)—A minority report from the House judiciary committee objected today to granting a proposed general monopoly investigating committee "such vast inquisitorial power."

Representative Michener (R-Mich.), who prepared the report, said he believed it would not be "for the best interest of our country to pass any legislation at this time that might be used to harass or intimidate any industry, be it large or small."

Let's Inspect Your Building

Your home, your business building or your apartment house quite probably needs some repairs. Make a little inspection tour through the properties you own to find out what is needed in the way of upkeep. There is no need to let these buildings grow old, depreciate in value or deprive the occupants of the comforts of modern housing. Loans at low cost for repairs and remodeling are available.

Let us check the roofs, the chimney, the flashing, the attic ventilation, the exterior trim, the interior wall material, the closet space, new outlets for wiring, finish flooring, plumbing and fixtures.

Let us see if we need new gutters and downspouts, any built-in equipment, new wall finishes, some built-in furniture, a remodeled fireplace or mantle; see that the joints and sub-flooring are all strong and in good repair.

How about grading and landscaping? Have you a heating plant that will permit of a basement recreation room? Are the rafters and studding, the roof sheathing, the dormers all sound? Do you need weather-stripping, insulation, new window frames and sash, blinds and shutters? New porches, stairway treads and rails? Check up on the foundation walls, the basement floors, the drains and footings.

PLUMBING

An improperly designed plumbing system may permit the drinking water to be polluted by waste water, thus exposing the occupants of the house to the menace of typhoid fever or amoebic dysentery.

The only way for a home owner to be assured of a trouble-free plumbing system is to take the precaution of having the work done under the supervision of an experienced master plumber and architect.

SMART ATTIC BEDROOM

Possibly you would like an attic bedroom such as illustrated above. There is really no good reason why you should not have one, for with a little ingenuity your wish may be fulfilled. Most attics are catch-alls and fire hazards, and it would be best to clean them out and convert the space into a usable room. Notice how satisfactorily the attic room pictured has been planned. The walls and ceilings are covered with a cane fibre wallboard which also has great insulating value, thus adding comfort to the rooms in both winter and summer. The paneling used for wall decoration is wood mouldings applied over the wallboard and then all surfaces painted.

(Editor's Note—Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana who leads the Old Guard opposition to President Roosevelt, today wins the Brass Ring and one free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round.)

WASHINGTON — Three events stand out as high water marks in the turbulent record of the third Roosevelt Congress as it fades into history:

1. The rejection of the Supreme Court and government reorganization bills—the President's greatest legislative defeats.

2. His extraordinary comeback in forcing the resurrection and enactment of the shelved wage-hour legislation.

The rise of Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, as the real leader of the opposition against a Democratic Administration.

Only one other President in the 150-year history of the Union was able to regain control of Congress after it once got out of hand.

"Andy" Jackson did it after Congress voted a new charter for the United States Bank despite his fiery opposition. But from Jackson's day until 1938, no President who had to deal with a run-away

Congress ever got back into the driver's seat.

After about four years in office, Theodore Roosevelt was kicked around on Capitol Hill like a football. Woodrow Wilson was broken physically and mentally by congressional rebellion, and Herbert Hoover was booted from pillar to post during more than half of his ill-fated incumbency.

Franklin Roosevelt's comeback and "Old Hickory's" historic feat have a striking similarity. For both got what they wanted.

Although Congress gave the United States Bank a new charter, Jackson finally smashed the Bank and drove it out of business. And although Congress turned down Roosevelt's Supreme Court bill, he forced the Nine Old Men to reverse themselves on almost every Administration issue.

And were it not for the anxiety of Senator Barkley to mend his political fences back in Kentucky, government reorganization would again be a flaming issue on Capitol Hill today. Under the pressure of Barkley's frantic pleas, Roosevelt reluctantly agreed to drop reorganization for the present, but it will be back in the lap of the new Congress that convenes next January.

Der Fuehrer

The emergence of Burton Wheeler from the ranks of the little band of veteran liberals, to the surprising role of chief of the variegated Old Guard elements fighting the New Deal, is the most dramatic and may be the most portentous political development of the Roosevelt Administration.

For Wheeler has filled a need that long has been the greatest weakness of the Old Guard opposition—competent leadership.

Until the Montana Senator took command of their camp, the anti-Administrationites had lacked a really first-class general. They had plenty of rough-and-tumble fighters, but no one with the prestige and calibre of a top-rung leader. Wheeler's accession filled this gap.

Although inclined to be lazy and easy-going, Wheeler, when his vanity has been offended and his ire aroused, can be an army in himself in stirring up trouble. There is no more astute, experienced and agile strategist in the political arena than the Senator from Montana.

He lacks the President's oratorical gifts, and Jim Farley's ingratiating personality, but he can more than match them in courage, resourcefulness and demagoguery. There isn't a politico in the country today who is Wheeler's superior in doing one thing and saying another—and what is more, saying it with a straight face.

Although the possessor of one of the strongest patronage-built machines in any State, although feeding half a dozen close relatives from the government payroll, Wheeler can rise solemnly from his seat and hurl anathemas of righteous indignation at White House lieutenants for taking sides in Democratic primaries and at the President's sons for selling insurance and marrying a duPont heiress.

And while publicly maintaining his pose as a liberal crusader, Burt can hold daily secret confabs with the most reactionary gunners in Congress, advising them on strategy and directing their operations.

The combination of brains and front—thanks to Wheeler—was the greatest weapon of the reactionaries in the court fight and is the greatest threat to Roosevelt's domination on Capitol Hill. Without Wheeler it is doubtful if the anti-Administrationites could have licked the judicial bill. As long as he plays ball with them they will continue to be a thorn in the President's side both in and out of Congress.

Presidential Fee

How long Wheeler will stay put in his present alignment depends on how long it will further his presidential ambitions.

There were two underlying factors behind Wheeler's break with the President: (1) his long smouldering resentment at not getting the Vice Presidential nomination and at being passed over for Attorney General when his colleague, Senator Tom Walsh, died; (2) his conclusion that Roosevelt never would back Burt Wheeler as his successor in the White House, and that the only way he could ever gain its entrance was to strike out for himself and strike back at Roosevelt.

Wheeler's new buddies have no illusions about his apparent conversion to their cause. They know full well that if it would serve his purpose better he would turn on them just as he turned on his one-time liberal friends.

But they are convinced that he can't walk out now; that he has made his bed and has no place else to go. This conclusion they base on the very definite fact that the liberals never again will trust Wheeler nor take him back into their fold.

Norris, LaFollette, Wagner and all the others with whom Burt trained for years, now shun him as a deserter and an enemy. They too have differences with Roosevelt, but the thing they will never forgive of Wheeler is his camaraderie with the men who have sought to destroy them.

Wheeler is conscious of this, and today is a lonely man. But that deadliest of all diseases, presidentialitis, is raging in his veins. And one of its surest symptoms is the firm conviction that in politics, the end justifies any means. (Copyright, 1938, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Insulation Pays

It Offers More Comfort and Saves

By Paul T. Haagen

It was not so long ago that folks first heard of insulation as a modern method of building health and comfort into a home. Before this period, people did not realize that by the expenditure of a few dollars during the construction of a new house or at the time of alteration of an old one they could greatly cut their winter's fuel bill and get a much more comfortable house at all seasons.

With the demand for greater comfort in the house, insulation came rapidly to the front as a needed principle in home construction until it has so grown in popularity that no one would think of building a new house without this principle being incorporated into the structure.

Insulation is not only a protection against cold but also a protection against outside heat as well as a great fuel-saver. Thus, heat from within is barred from passing outside and in summer the intense heat from outside cannot penetrate indoors.

In the average home it has been estimated that about 43 per cent of the heat loss is through doors and windows; 55 per cent of the balance is lost through the walls and roofs, with the greater percentage of the loss through the roof.

This you can easily prove to yourself if you will notice the snow-covered roofs of different homes in the winter. You will find that on the roof of a house where there is no insulation, the snow melts very fast due to the heat loss through the roof from below.

New FHA Financing Expected to Start Soon

Many thousands of American families are live prospects for building or buying homes, as soon as the new FHA plan permitting of 90 per cent loans goes into effect. Reduction in interest rates will help to enable many families to immediately start buying a home.

Establishment of well-financed national mortgage associations will also release extensive credit for home building, thus making it easier to obtain construction money from local State and National banks on a simple mortgage.

When the volume of construction that is required in this country once gets under way, it will undoubtedly deplete the supply of labor and material so that prices will inevitably rise—so the answer to your problem of home-building or—owning, is to DO IT NOW!

HINTS ON PAINTING

Be sure that the wood you wish to paint is dry, straight through. If in doubt, wait until you can be sure.

Be sure the paint you are using is made for the purpose required. There are floor paints for floors and wall paints for walls, etc.

Avoid painting exterior surfaces when the weather is rainy or even excessively damp. Also when it is very hot.

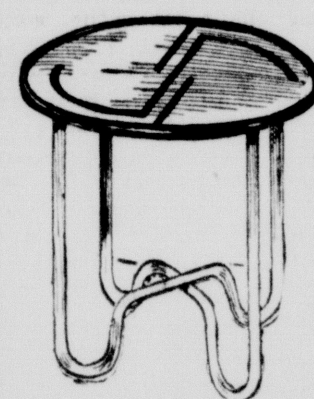

Never try to speed up a paint job. Work carefully and deliberately to a plan worked out in advance.

Where insulation is used, the snow does not melt.

And so the roof of your house can tell a story of thrift and economy or of waste and extravagance. Watch the roofs after a snowstorm!

IT'S BAD WEATHER for POOR ROOFS

• Does every rain storm cause chills to run up and down your back because of that leaky roof?

• Did you find a patch of wet plaster in the bedroom, dining room or kitchen Saturday morning after that shower the night before?

• This summer weather starts out as if it would furnish this part of the state plenty of rain. If your roof leaks your troubles have only started.

• Why not end all the worry and damage by telling us your roof troubles. We can repair your present roof (any kind) or put on a new roof that will make your building secure against all weather.

This yard handles roofing materials for all types of roofs.

Octagon House

BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR

The Story So Far:
Asey Mayo, Cape Cod detective, is investigating the murder of Marina Lorne, whose husband's post office mural has aroused Quannomet. She was killed by a left handed blow from her sister's knife, but Pam Frye is innocent, as well as Tim Carr who was once married to Marina. Then the barn is burned, and Asey, Tim, and Pam's father are knocked out. The problem confronting Asey is a $50,000 lump of ambergis which Pam found the day of the murder and Aaron Frye hid in the barn. Asey is convinced the fire was set by someone who is after the ambergis, and that the lump was not in the barn when it burned. With Tim, Asey is now looking for two missing troopers.

Chapter 32 Dune Island

Without apparently decreasing speed, Asey turned off on a sand road. Tim averted his eyes from the ruts. It was simpler not to look ahead, in this particular case he thought.

"Er—you intend to use the coupe, do you?" he inquired. "To sea hunt, I mean?"

Asey grinned.
"Oh, I know," Tim said hastily. "I know you're a director of Porter's automobile factory, and you're a pioneer automobilist—somehow I'd rather have liked to see you in goggles and a dust coat, scorching along at eleven and a half—yes, Asey, I'm sure you know cars, and you seem to have a way with fate. But this is a city car. It can't swim. Not the teeniest bit. Sissy, I know, but there you are. How do you organize a sea hunt, by the way? What does one do? Stand on the beach and squint to leeward, or something?"

"You know the woods back of Octagon House," Asey began.

"Know them?" Tim said. "My dear man, Robinson Crusoe never knew his damn island the way I know those woods. I can truthfully say that, after last night, I know every nook and cranny, every last bit of poison ivy. I know it by heart. What about the woods?"

"Eventually," Asey said, "the woods come to the river. We didn't hunt that far. A salt river, it is, an' it runs off Wherry Pond. That's a salt pond."

Timothy stuck his head out the window and watched the wheels squashing gummily through the bog.

"O'Malley an' Shorty," Asey said, "met up with the biffer. Our pal, our shrewdly was too shrewd to be seen, an' I don't know about the other feller. I'm sure it was the biffer, an' I sort o' feel the cops must of got biffed. Cops ain't never so interested in a chase as they are in a chase where they got biffed, personally. A good smack seems to sort of inspire 'em. I think O'Malley an' Shorty chased our pal the biffer through the woods, an' along to the river, an' then I think they took to a boat."

"All in the same boat?" Tim asked.

"You must," Asey said, "have been an awful irritatin' boy, when young."

"It's my mathematical mind," Tim said. "I have to put every item in its place. The biffer took to a boat in the river, and the cops took to another, and followed. That right?"

"I think so," Asey said.

"You make things so simple and brief," Timothy said. "Like a news reel—no, I'm not being funny. I mean it. Didn't you ever notice the simplicity and clarity of the news reels? Say some dictator says something that shakes the world and sets international crises going left and right. This Means War. Civilization on Precipice. And just as you think about laying in a lot of canned milk and pemmican, then you go to the movies and see the news reel of the dictator making his statement, and it's just a man waving his arms around at a lot of heads. Simplicity itself—am I boring you?"

"Had much radio experience?" Asey asked drily.

"No, it's just my fluent way," Tim said. "It's—why do we stop?"

"This is where get out and walk. Take off your shoes."

Down the River
Timothy looked at the sedge grass, half submerged in the water, and the shells, and the stones with barnacles that were scattered along the shore.

"I suppose," Tim said, "you really do expect me to take off my shoes, too, and tramp bravely in my bare feet? No, I had some brief experience with that grass and those barnacles, the day we came. My shoes stay on."

"Then head 'em the right way," Asey said. "We're going 'round the point."

"Where are we?" Tim asked.

"Roughly, I mean. And where are we bound?"

"We're on the river," Asey said. "Ocean's to the right, beyond the pond an' the channel. The old landin's around the bend. It ain't been used since they built that nice new alphabet wharf up in the cove, but I know Pam keeps her boats here. She said so. Probably others do, too. If you wanted to fly straight like a crow, you'd be able to shoot back to Octagon House over the tree tops, an' the swamp. We circled around an' got here a lot quicker than we could of on foot. We're also nearer where we want to get to than if we started from the town wharf."

"I see," Tim said. "It was that swamp where I got in before I knew it, during our man hunt. Now, what about the troopers?"

"I think," Asey said, "they went down the river, followin' the biffer, an' then I think they got across the small end of the pond, an' into the channel current. An' then I think the tide intervened, an' took 'em out to sea. At least, as far as Dune Island."

"And what do we do?"

"Oh, we take a boat an' investigate," Asey said casually. "Here—here are Pam's, see 'em? The Fryin' Pam's I, II, and III. One sail-boat an' two sharpies. Chained an' locked to the moorin's, but—uh—huh. There's two other boats that belong here, see? They'll long here an' here."

"The old trapper," Timothy said in a rapid monotone, "pointed dramatically to the oak leaves at the foot of the tree, Flying Cloud and his redskins, he hissed, have been here within the hour. Let's see. One was a tall boat with a black mustache, and the other was a short fat dory with a front tooth missing, and a slight limp—"

"For that," Asey said, smashing the lock on the Fryin' Pam III, "you row. Get in, whippersnapper—bust that chain on the oars—oh, give it to me! Yup, you get in an' row."

"The muscles on Carr's neck and shoulders," Timothy continued impatiently, "stood out like those of some ancient Greek athlete about to meet his lion. Row, my boy, for dear old Quannomet."

Shirt on a Stick
"Yes," Asey said, "you can row, can't you? I seem to remember, now I think of it. I seem to recall seein' you row before. Single scull champ, wasn't you? Gold cup—"

"Oh," Tim said, suddenly very flustered and pink. "I used to row when I was a kid—is it your idea that the biffer is a native?"

Asey nodded. "Port your helm," he said. "Yup, I begun to think he was a native, last night. I also think he's the outcome of the mural trouble, an' I know he knows his way around this region. An' he had sense enough to know that his way around this region. An' he ain't many troopers you can't fox in a boat. He cut across here in the dark, see? An' he made for shore, an' home an' mother. An' he let the tide take care of the troopers. Now, lean back an' let the current take you from here. In about 10 minutes we'll hit Dune Island."

Timothy was silent while they drifted along.

"Asey, he said at last, 'what's the story that Hanson and the rest of us don't know? It's something that concerns Pam, I'm sure, but Gran and I can't do it out.'"

"Ordinarily," Asey said, "I'd tell you. In this particular case, I think it's nicer that you don't know."

"For 'nicer,'" Tim said, "read

Corner Closets Add To Limited Room

Bed Room
Corner Closet

Many times in modernizing an old house there is limited room for a bedroom closet.

A convenient closet can be built in one corner of a room, making it a decorative as well as useful feature. This closet has a pair of long doors which enclose the hanging space and shelves. The interior is divided by two vertical boards between which a clothes rod is hung. The space on either side of the vertical boards is used for shelves. Below there are two drawers.

safer, I see. Is Pam in any danger?"

"Anyone else might be," Asey said. "But Pam seems to have a happy kind of faculty of treatin' trials an' tribulations an' dangers like they was very ordinary things. I don't think Pam can be bluffed. An' at this stage of the game, I think the person that's dangerous to her probly realizes that Pam knows no more than he does. Turn around, Tim, an' see what you think of Dune Island."

"I think," Timothy said, "looking over his shoulder. I think you've got something here, Mayo. D'you suppose that blue shirt on a stick is a signal?"

"A lovely sight," Tim said appreciatively, as he and Asey stared at the two recumbent figures. "A lovely sight. Sleep it is a gentle thing—is this what they call squandering the taxpayer's money? And where's their boat? Shall I wake them, or will you?"

"Seems a pity," Asey said, and let off a bellow that brought both men to their feet.

"Sorry," he continued politely, "to disturb you, but where in the dickens have you been, an' how long do you intend to disrupt a murder case by your seaside snoozes?"

"Say," the shorter one said, "you're Asey Mayo, aren't you? Well, say, we got him!"

"You," Asey said, "got who?"

"The guy that was prowling around Octagon House, and the woods, and around there. The guy that knocked the two of us out. Boy, what a night! We're lucky to be here. But we got him, all right!"

TRICK CUPBOARD

When most of the housework devolves upon one person, it is desirable to save as many steps as possible between the kitchen and dining room. Where three meals a day have to be served, this is a matter of importance.

Here is a handy cupboard that may be built in the corner of the dining room. At the back there are doors opening into the kitchen. Dishes may be passed through this opening from the kitchen and removed from the dining room side.

FIX UP TIME . . . How About the Home?

Do you need a new roof? Have leaks developed during the season when snow has melted on the roof and soaked the shingles? Now is the time to apply a new one, before the driving Spring rains descend.

Do you need an extra room—a bedroom or a study or a working space? Study the plan of your house and see if there is not a space in the attic or the basement that might be turned into this useful room; or could it be added at a particularly adaptable point?

Does your kitchen need bringing up-to-date? Nothing is so discouraging to the home-maker and housekeeper than a drab, uninteresting, depressing kitchen.

Do you have screens at the windows and doors or on the porches? Do they need repairing?

HAPPY FAMILY.

1st flapper: "I have been married more than you."

2nd flapper: "Yes, you are two chumps ahead of me."

Of course, we'd rather sell you new screens every year, but since you're bound to find out sooner or later anyway, we'd just as well tell you that they will last a lot longer if you will paint them before they go through the summer. And here's a friendly tip—if you paint the screens black inside and white outside, you can watch the neighbors without them seeing you.

Wife: "My husband has no bad habits whatsoever, he never drinks, he never smokes, he never spends all his evenings at home. Why, he doesn't even belong to a club."

Friend: "Does he smoke?"

Wife: "Only in moderation. He likes a cigar after he has had a good dinner, but I don't suppose he smokes two cigars a month."

The spring rains and summer heat may be hard on your ROOF, but if you have a MULE-HIDE Cor-Du-Roy Roof, you have nothing to worry about. MULE-HIDE Cor-Du-Roy ROOFS can take it!

You may like to stay out-of-doors as much as possible in the summertime, but it stands to reason you can't live out-of-doors, so why not compromise by letting us build you a nice big screened-in porch. Then you'll be free of mosquitoes, ants and sunburn. And you'd be surprised how little a good porch costs.

LET DISCREDIT BE GIVEN WHERE DISCREDIT IS DUE

Probably it would be hard to find an American who is not in complete sympathy with the protests the government has made recently against aerial bombing of populous cities. No matter what excuses may be advanced, that kind of bombing is a crime against humanity—and every American knows it.

Yet it is extremely important for us to realize just who the enemy is, when we make these protests.

It would be the worst kind of folly for us to let these bombing outrages persuade us that the Japanese people (for example), or the residents of rebel-controlled Spain, or the great mass of Italians and Germans, are bad and vicious and cruel and inhuman.

Those are people like ourselves. Some of them are good sorts and some of them are not so good. Taken by and large they are neither much better nor much worse than we are. As individual human beings they like the idea of bombing women and children better than we like it.

The real enemy is the militarist—the army man who has succumbed to the idea that no price is too high to pay for victory, who feels that any conceivable method of beating down one's foe is legitimate if it works. And that gentleman is not the exclusive possession of any country. He can be found everywhere.

If you hate these bombing raids (as you undoubtedly do) that man is your enemy—whether he wears the uniform of the Japanese, the Germans, the Spanish . . . or the Americans.

He is your enemy because he has no conception of what civilization means. He is willing to use in warfare weapons which mean that the entire world is the loser whoever gains the immediate victory. He is blood brother to the old Assyrian monarchs who used to boast about the piles of mutilated corpses they erected outside of conquered cities.

And it is important to get his identity fixed, for two reasons.

First, there is no sense in letting our indignation at the bombing outrages set up in us an antagonism to some specific nation. The road to war is built on just such antagonisms. Once you believe that some particular people are cruel and conscienceless, you are practically ready to fight them.

Second, the militarist exists because we let him exist. When we shrug our shoulders at some bit of war-time barbarism and say, "Well—that's war, and it can't be helped," we hold up his hand. The only way to stop him is to denounce him and his philosophy, in season and out of season—to denounce him, and not the particular nation he happens at the moment to be working for.

Only in that way can we stop this frightful growth of savagery.

THE PERILS OF SUMMER

For the benefit of those people who have jobs to take vacations from this summer the United States Public Health Service has issued a list of hints for the preservation of health away from the office.

The service advises:
Wear light clothing, but watch out for the sun.
Be careful of the food you eat and water you drink.
Protect your eyes.

Avoid mosquitoes, flies, and wood ticks.
Drink salty water in hot weather.

Which is all right as far as it goes. But also, vacationists, if you want to keep your health:

Don't give lifts. Don't accept them.

Don't use tree stumps as ash-trays.

Don't tell the cop the traffic rules in your town make more sense.

Don't try to carry away the hotel towels.

Don't tell your wife how she looks in knickers.

RAY OF SUNSHINE

Had you been envying the members of a few generations from now who would be able to watch moving pictures that had been produced a hundred years before their time? So had a lot of other people.

But now it turns out that the celluloid hasn't got that kind of staying-power. James R. West, a chemical engineer who has been studying the problem in Hollywood, announces that the master negative of a moving picture lasts about 25 years, and that recopying can be done only three times before the pictures become invisible. "I fear that our grandchildren will never see them," he says of contemporary films.

The first emotion the announcement arouses is one of disappointment, but after a little meditation the agony begins to abate. The mind remembers reactions to revived motions pictures in its own time. It recalls the embarrassment at discovering what kind of eye-wash it used to go into dithers about a decade ago. It meditates on the likely reactions of posterity to its own discovery of what grandpa went for. It feels a little better about perishable film.

The rapidity with which moving picture products become dated is a reminder that the moving picture as an art form is still in its changeable youth. By the time it has

1 WHEN A BURGLAR IS CAUGHT IS HE IN MORE DANGER OF BEING IDENTIFIED BY THE WOMEN WHO SAW HIM THAN BY THE MEN? YOUR OPINION

ARE PEOPLE MORE WILLING TO REVEAL THE WICKED OR THE FOOLISH THINGS IN THEIR LIVES WHEN WRITING OR TELLING THEIR BIOGRAPHIES? YOUR OPINION

DOES EDUCATION AIDONE IN GETTING ALONG WITH OTHER PEOPLE? YES OR NO

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. At Colorado University, Thomas H. Howells, psychologist, took six photographs of each of 42 persons (14 men and 28 women) ranging in age from 20 to 58. All the photos were taken in different dresses and poses. Three of each person's photographs were put on a card and the other three on a big chart—all mixed up with the others. Then 134 students who had never seen any of the persons were asked to match the faces on the card with those on the chart. The women were somewhat superior to the men; sales people to farm people, and fraternity to nonfraternity people.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Far more willing to reveal the wicked things. Memory is treacherous and in the dim haze of the years we find excuses for the wickedest things and can color them almost into virtuous deeds, while we either ignore the foolish things or else just steer around them. We can plead for sympathy and forgiveness for our sins but for foolishness there is neither forgiveness nor sympathy.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Book and school education helps little, if any. Savages seem to get along with each other about as well as college professors, lawyers, doctors or writers. But playing hunting, fishing, camping, or cooperation in school or office or shop work are very definite aids to getting along with other people simply because we learn by doing. Psychologists can be of immense aid to individuals who find it hard to be good mixers. Such people lack self confidence. (Copyright 1938, John F. Dille Co.)

League of Women Voters Endorses Proposed Food Bill

The Illinois League of Women Voters through its president, Mrs. George G. Bogert, today made public a letter to Senators William H. Dieterich and James Hamilton Lewis and Congressmen-at-large E. V. Champion and Lewis M. Long, anent the pure Food and Drug legislation which is to be voted on in the Congress within a week. Letter follows:

"We in the Illinois League of Women Voters are delighted with the prospect that a really good Food and Drug Bill will soon be voted on by Congress: good at least in all except one provision, i. e., the clause providing for judicial review. This provision would make administration of the Act so cumbersome as to nullify, almost, sound provisions of the rest of the bill.

"It is our understanding that the provision was put there in the interest of the apple growers, so again it would appear that in the perennial conflict between special interests and the public interest, the public interest has once again come off second best.

"The bill is at present in Conference Committee, I believe. Will you not urge the members to vote to strike out that provision and, with this deleted, to support the text of the bill; and will you not support it in this form when it comes before the Congress proper? To a degree superseding almost anything else, pure food and drug legislation comes very close to the home interest of the people.

"We look to you to do your part in seeing to it that the legislation that is enacted consider first and foremost the public interest."

This legislation appears in Congress as S. 5, introduced by Senator Copeland of New York. The public is urged to make known at once to their congressmen and senators their view on the subject.

Garden Tea Closes Woman's Club Season

A delightful event which closed the season's activities of the Dixon Woman's club was the garden tea held Thursday afternoon at Briarcliff, the beautiful home of Mrs. George Beier, Mrs. L. L. McGinnis was chairman of the hostess committee.

Members of the club gathered on the spacious porch overlooking the river beyond the lawn. Here the president, Mrs. Lester Street, called the meeting to order and gave a most interesting report on the state convention held recently at Chicago.

Then followed the annual reports of officers. It was with satisfaction that club members learned from the president that 52 new members had been received into the club this year.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses and this closed a most successful season for the club.

Mrs. MacDonald and Mrs. Moss Entertain

Mrs. Louis G. MacDonald and Mrs. Z. W. Moss entertained 18 ladies at a 1 o'clock luncheon yesterday at the home of Mrs. MacDonald on Crawford avenue.

The MacDonald home was festive with gorgeous peonies, delphinium and garden roses. The guests were seated at two large tables which were unusually attractive. Each one bore a centerpiece of exquisite Van Fleet roses.

After a very delicious luncheon the guests enjoyed a game of bridge and first prize was given to Mrs. George Cornelius for the highest score. It was a beautiful blue mirror flower bowl. Mrs. Nellie Van Inwegen having the next highest score received a bottle of perfume. Mrs. Harry Roe was also favored and she received a dozen beverage rapkins.

Miss Pearl Neff is Honored at Shower

Miss Leone Ort, Miss Helen Carson and Mrs. Robert Brewster entertained Thursday night at the latter's home at a personal shower in honor of Miss Pearl Neff, who is to become the bride of Kenneth Delweller in the near future.

Miss Rachel Moment To Wed Next Sunday

Miss Rachel Moment who will be married to Louis Sinow June 19 has been honored with many parties. Miss Ruth Wienman, who is to be maid of honor, was hostess at her home Wednesday evening where a delightful party was held. Sunday the couple will motor to Milwaukee where Miss Charlotte Weigman will be hostess at a kitchen shower. Faculty members of Rockford college, where Miss Moment is a member of the physical education department and instructor of dancing, complimented her with a most useful gift at a party Monday evening.

The wedding will take place on June 19 at 5 P. M. at the Graemere hotel, Chicago. A bridal dinner and reception will follow the wedding.

The groom's brother, Sidney Sinow who has just returned from Northwestern university, where he has just completed his sophomore year, will be the best man. Henry Werner of Sandwich and Samuel Rubin of Rock Falls will be ushers.

Ladies Aid Society Enjoys Hymn Study

The Ladies Aid of the M. E. church met in the church parlors on Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Arthur Shearburn presiding. Miss Mau had charge of the devotion and program and she chose for her topic, "Hymn Study," and the "Heritage of Music." She opened the meeting with a Charles Wesley hymn, "O, for a Thousand Tongues to Sing." Several of his hymns were sung during the meeting, "A Charge to Keep I Have," "On God, Our Help in Ages Past." Her scripture references were from the revision of the Methodist hymnal and of the facts concerning Charles Wesley's hymn writing. The definition of hymns and their classification was discussed. The oldest Christian hymn, "O, Gladsome Night," which was written in Greek about the third century was sung by Mrs. Weaver and Mrs. Lucille Boiz. It was translated into English by Robert Bridges. A poem by William Chullen Bryant, "Hymn to the Forest," was read and an article to illustrate the emotional responses when Jascha Heifetz played "Hymn to the Sun" to Helen Keller. Mrs. Wheeler played this selection on the piano. She spoke of June, the month of joyful music and the "Hymn of Joy" was sung by Mrs. Wesner and Mrs. Lucille Boiz. The song, "America, the Beautiful," was sung by all and Mrs. Mau explained the writing of each verse by Catherine Bates and how she happened to compose it.

Mrs. Shearburn conducted the short business meeting and the nominating committee reported all officers of the past year would serve the coming year. Rev. Street closed the meeting with prayer.

Brain Twizzlers
By
PROF. J. D. FLINT

NOW MAYBE I CAN FIGURE OUT A THOUSAND WAYS TO MAKE EIGHTS—

"Always trying to make something out of nothing or out of something else." That's what they kept saying about Johnny Jones of Jupiter Junction. But Johnny turned out in later years to be the "local boy" who did the trick. One of Johnny's favorite make - something - out-of-something-else problems was to make the figure one thousand by using eight figure eights. Addition, subtraction or multiplication is permissible. Can you do it?

Answer to Yesterday's Twizzler.
